THE BIBLE. The Bible is the foundation of the faith of the Christian world. The theological doctines received by Christians, and the hopes they cherish of a future life, are drawn from this source. And it is matter of surprise with many, that there should be such various systems and creeds aly religion. A little reflection, indeed, will satisfy us, that differences of opinion would arise, They have different degrees of information, and came to our nontheir views on other subjects will have an influtheir views on other subjects with nave at minute one on the opinions which they imbibe respecting religion. The young will put a somewhat different construction on passages of scripture plied by the United States. Message to

From the Age.

The following is the Message of the President communicated to Congress the Constitution, &c. of the Territory of Michigan. It seems to us to present, with great distinctness, the grounds of the steps taken by Michigan, and the duty of Congress in relation to them. We trust that mere party spirit will not prompt any wrong action on this subject, when the true course is so plain and reasonable. The polities of the new State should not be regarded at all. The man who would deny its claims to be admitted when just lest it should injure his party, or allow them when unfounded in order to benefit his party, is unworthy of a public trust. In questions concerning the rights of the different portions of the Confederacy, it is all important that the rule which justice indicates should be strictly pursued. A party may gain should be strictly pursued. A party may gain for the moment by disregarding it, but the gain is dearly bought—for it disturbes the harmony and endangers the very existence of the Union. It is only evenlanded justice in these matters.

The utile et dulce shall still be our object and aim. We do not presume to instruct the veteran and e-rudite scholar, who has spent thirty or forty years in his study,—nor to lay open those hidden systerics of nature which have escaped the ken of the most inquisitive,— Nor do we exceet to approach so near to the moon or oth. Nor do we expect to approach so near to the moon or other planets, as to tell what are the trees, the birds, and animals which may there grow, or live and move. We leave such extraordinary feats to those who are more vislonary, or more daring than we are. But we hope and intend to keep up the character and spirit of the Magaxine, in presenting solid and useful articles, which may be instructive to a portion of our readers, and not considered wholly unimportant to literary men. We consider the whole United States as our field, though not our's exclusively; and we ask the favour of persons of taste-and science, to communicate important facts, and natur-al scenes, and works of arts, for the bonefit of all our friends.
